TOURIST DEATH TRAP IN TYROLESE ALPS

PARIS, Oct. 20 .- French detectives, sent out by the secret service depart-ment, have discovered in the Tyrolese Alps gruesome indications of the existence of a death trap for tourists which The men had been sent into the moun tains to investigate the mystery surrounding the disappearance of Deputy Alphonse Braunschweig, a Swiss deputy who disappeared on August 10. Foul traced the deputy to an inn in the Tyro- ton. ese Alps kept by a family of peasants having a very bad reputation. In the ast six years many tourists have disappeared on their way to and from excursions in the neighboring mountains, nd in every case they were known to have passed the inn. A thorough search of the inn revealed suit of clothes which had evidently be-

Captain Rossiter, of No. 4.

Capt. James Rossiter, now in com-mand of No. 4 Engine Company, is one of the junior captains of the department. His first assignment in command of a company was in South Washington. He has been in the department about fif-teen years, having served in all the ower grades prior to his prometion to a captaincy. He was lieutenant at No. 10, where he was stationed several years. At one time he was driver for former Chief Engineer Parris. Captain Ressiter is one of the most energetic and capable of the District firefighters.

Private Fletcher lives in Tenleytown and sees his family once a week on his day off. He says he has to be introduced to the boy every week, having grown out of his remembrance between the times of meeting him.

No. 16 has a brand new-chemical and hose wagon, of which the company is very proud. The men have put on their best horses and declare they will not be beaten to any fire by another company in the downtown section, at least until the paint wears off.

The new annex to No. 8 engine house erested for the storage of apparatus in onnection with the mechanical section of the department, is finished, has been cepted by the District, and has gone into service. Machinist Robinson now has room in which to turn an engine around during the period of repairs without running it out of doors.
